FCN treaty. DEPT has been studying possibility developing appropriate provisions FCN treaty which WLD contribute to advantageous future development US-JAP trade relations, being seriously considered as FCL provision/ contribution in this direction

QTE The two Parties, sharing a common interest in the achievement and maintenance of fair labor standards related to productivity and in the improvement of wages and working conditions as productivity may permit, recognize that the existence of labor conditions in export industries below those warranted by the productivity of the particular industry and the economy at large create difficulties in international trade. Accordingly, each Party undertakes through appropriate and feasible policies to foster labor conditions tending to avoid such difficulties in trade between their respective territories; and the two Parties will on appropriate occasions consult concerning possible measures to this end.
